

The Daily Gazetteer.

THURSDAY, JUNE 15. 1738.

928.

IT must certainly be a very agreeable Surprise to all good Men, to see what large Advances the Spirit of Reformation makes among the People of this Land: If a Man does not comport himself with the utmost Caution and Circumspection, in every Circumstance and Relation of Life, as well of a private as a publick Nature, those that set themselves up for the Censors of the Age, immediately take him in Hand, and set a Brand of Infamy on his Name and Character; all the Actions of his Life are narrowly pry'd into and scann'd, for Materials to furnish out this rare Repast for the Publick; and all the Force of Wit and Eloquence is display'd to render every Person that is so unfortunate to fall under the Displeasure of the Satyrists, odious and ridiculous.

Thus every Man in the Nation, of how great Rank or Distinction soever, is, as it were, bound to his good Behaviour, and is obliged to have a very particular Regard to his Conduct, as He will be answerable for any Defect or Mistake in it before this new Tribunal; a Tribunal which has been erected by the unanimous Voice and Suffrages of all the Patriots in the Kingdom, to exalt and do Honour to themselves, and to cast Obloquy and Reproach on every body else.

And indeed it has fully answer'd all the Purposes for which it was instituted; for as on the one hand I believe there is hardly a Man of any Eminence in the Kingdom, who serves the Crown, or enjoys the Favour of his Prince, but has undergone the Censure of this Tribunal; so on the other hand, I believe there is hardly a Man who acts in all Respects in direct Opposition to the Crown, or who merits the Displeasure of his Prince, but has received the highest Compliments and Applauses from it.

And there certainly is no other way of accounting for the Praises that are so lavishly bestowed on some Persons, or the Invectives that are so frequently thrown against others; but as the former are in Place, or in Power, and the latter out of Place or out of Power; the Knowledge of which is the best Key or Expofitor to all the Satyrs and Panegyrics that are writ in the present Times.

For can any thing be more notorious, than that on this account alone, the highest Virtues and the greatest Talents have been imputed to those who never had one good Quality, nor one Grain of Sense? Have not for the same Reason, the most incorrigible Coxcombs been cry'd up for their Wit and Parts? Have not the dullest Fellows alive been extolled for their fine Taste and Understanding? And the most Selfish and most Worthless for their Patriotism and publick Spirit?

And is it not pleasant enough to observe a Man who was the most abject and servile Tool of Power, under one Administration, perpetually Babbling against Corruption in Courts and Ministers under another? To see him, who would once at the first Word of Command, with all the Readiness and Alacrity imaginable, flounce over Head and Ears in the Mire, become all on a sudden so extremely Nice and Squeamish, as to start and shudder at the least Speck of Dirt on his Shoe? To see the very same Person, who to Day was possessed of Places and Employments, without Bounds and without Number, who was still craving, always obtaining, and yet never satisfy'd: To see him, I say, who was glutted with the Wealth of the Publick to Day, be To-morrow for sacrificing every Man in the Kingdom who had a Salary or a Pension, as a Traytor and an Enemy to his Country, is something very strange and unaccountable; but yet such extraordinary Patriots there are, and their great Merit and Virtue, their Zeal for the Publick, and their Love of their Country, are blazon'd about the Kingdom both in Prose and Verse, in such a manner, as if their unstained Integrity, consummate Wisdom, and illustrious Qualities, were the only Prop and Support that the Nation had left.

But who are these great Patriots, whose Characters have been exalted up to the Skies, for their disinterested and unwearied Endeavours to serve their Country? Why examine a little into their Conduct, and you will find that they are not at all wiser or honest than other Men; nor at all wiser or honest even than those they are pleased to represent as the very worst and weakest of Men.

And is it possible to believe Men are in Earnest, when at the same time that they pretend to overflow with such an abundant Zeal for their Country, they are destitute of Virtue, Humanity, and even common Affections, with regard to every thing else? Is it to be conceived that a bad Father, a bad Husband, or a bad Man, can be a good Patriot? Can He be possessed of those great and excellent Qualities, that constitute to illustrious and amiable a Character, who discovers a mean, selfish, sordid Disposition in all other Affairs and Circumstances? Can the little groveling Heart, that centers every thing in itself, that grasps at every thing, and parts with nothing, and pines in Penury amidst the greatest Wealth and Abundance; can such a Heart, I say, swell with those generous and exalted Sentiments, that animated a Phocion, a Brutus, a Cato? Can one speak of that noble and elevated Spirit that shone with so much Lustre in those immortal Heroes, glimmer one Moment in a Breast, polluted with the meanest and basest of Vices, Avarice, and the Love of Money? Can He feel any Concern for the Welfare of his Country, who can sigh for the Loss of a Shilling? Or He have any Regard for the Interests of the Whole, whose Ears are deaf to the Sorrows and Distresses of every Individual?

There is no judging of Men by their Professions but their Actions: Can a cruel, an unjust, or a covetous Man in private Life, have a humane, upright, munificent Heart in publick Life? Can He be a Friend to Liberty, who is a Slave to those above him, and a Tyrant to those that are under him? Is the Man that has lavish'd away a Prince's Revenue on Fiddlers, Buffoons, Gamesters, and in a Circle of Vices and Follies, without doing one good or one generous Action, is He to be regarded when he talks of publick Virtue, and a national Frugality and Oeconomy? Are not those Words a Jest in his Mouth? Is it not even a Prophanation in him to mention them? Can it be imagined that He can do it with any other Design than to turn them into Ridicule, whose whole Life has been a Contradiction to them? No, certainly, where there is no private Virtue, there can be no publick Virtue, where People are prodigal of their own, they never will be frugal for the Publick; and yet such are thy Patriots, O Britain! Such thy Heroes, O P——e!

COUNTRY NEWS.

Northampton, June 12. On the 5th of April last died Mrs. Sarah, the Wife of William Tilley, D. D. and Rector of Albury, in the County of Oxford, of the ancient Family of the Howes. She was adorn'd with all the excellent Qualifications and Virtues which give the truest Lustre to a Gentlewoman and good Christian; a Mother to the Distress'd, to the Diseases'd a Physician; of a compassionate Liberality, attended with uncommon Success. After bearing her long and tedious Indisposition with that Meekness of Temper, Submission and Patience, of which her Life was one continued Act, she resign'd her pious Soul, to the great Grief of all her Friends, and to the irreparable Loss of the Poor.

Salisbury, June 10. On Tuesday last the Races began here, when two started for the King's Plate of 100 Guineas, viz Lord Weymouth's Bay Horse, Scrutineer, and Mr. Hutton's Black Horse, Chance; which latter won the Plate: He likewise won the King's Plate at Guildford about a Fortnight ago.

On Wednesday four started for the Twenty-five Guineas, viz Mr. Grefwood's Grey Horse, Partner, Mr. Libbavy's Chestnut Horse, Mouse, Mr. Figg's Bay Mare, Common-Hack, and Mr. Ridge's Chestnut Horse, Plain-Dealer. The Mare pushed the Grey Horse very hard the first Heat; the second Heat was very hard run between the Mare, the Grey Horse, and Mouse, and a pretty deal of Jockeyship used the last Half-Mile; but the Grey Horse got the Heat again, tho' scarcely a Horse's Length: Plain-Dealer was distanc'd the second Heat. A third Heat was run by Mouse and the Mare for the Stakes; the Odds at starting went on the Mare, but Mouse beat her.

On Thursday two started for the City Plate, viz Lord Weymouth's Chestnut Gelding, Conqueror, and Sir Robert Fagg's Chestnut Horse, Golden Locks; which was won by the former.

We had very fine Weather, and a good Appearance of Gentlemen and Ladies, viz. the Duke and Duchess of Beaufort, Lord Weymouth, Sir Jacob Desboverie, John Howe, Esq; Mr. Hoare our Representative, and several other Persons of Quality and Distinction. The Assembly was very much crowded each Evening.

Gloucester, June 10. We have an Account from Marlborough, that on Monday last four Coaches and two Chaises, coming from Bath, were robb'd on the Downs near Abery, by a single Highwayman, mounted on a Bay Horse, who, 'tis said, got a very considerable Booty in Money and Watches. A Gentleman's Servant rode after him, and came up with him; but the Fellow dropping a green Purse, and the Servant stopping to pick it up, he made his Escape. He was afterwards pursued by some of the Country People, but we don't hear that he is taken.

The only short and infallible Cure

For that reigning Disease the SCURVY, and all Scorbatic Humours, tho' arrived to the highest and most inveterate Degree, or of ever so many Years standing, and that without any sensible Evacuation or the least Purgings, which by an unaccountable Mixture is generally advised, although always found rather to increase and confirm the Scurvy than cure it.

By the so much famed and most pleasant Chymical DROPS:

WHICH, without the least Trouble,

Confinement, or any Disorder whatever, do at once strike at the true Cause of the Scurvy, and entirely destroy it, and all Scorbatic Humours and Effects, Root and Branch, so as never to return again, as many Thousands of both Sexes have experienced, and as all who take them in 3 Days time will be convinced; for they almost instantly alter the morbid State of the Juices, purify the Blood, sweeten all the Fluids, cleanse them from Impurities, and directly clear the whole Habit from all Spots, Blisters, black and blue Marks, Itchings, foul Eruptions, or Breakings out, Weakness of the Limbs languid Heaviness of the whole Body, wandering Pains, Weakness of the Back, and all the vast Variety of Symptoms by which the Scurvy imitates and often lies concealed under the Appearance of the Rheumatism, and many other Distempers.

And for strengthening the Stomach, immediately creating a good Appetite, causing a regular and easy Digestion of Food, and curing all windy Effects and Disorders of the first Passages (whence proceed Head-achs, Vapours and other Indispositions) no Bitters nor any other Medicine upon Earth can compare with them, inasmuch that besides infallibly curing the Scurvy in all its Shapes and Appearances, they also assuredly and immediately cure the Green-sickness in Virgins, Worms of all Kinds in young or old, and almost all other Chronick Diseases, (which are chiefly occasioned by Indigestion and sturkent Crudities in the Stomach and Bowels) and certainly prevent Fevers, Agues, and other acute Illnesses.

They are wonderfully Cordial and Restorative, strengthen and enliven the whole Machine, and as soon as taken, make the Patient pleasantly Lightfom, Brisk and Vigorous to admiration, and are good for all Sorts of Persons, to preserve as well as to procure a sound and healthy State of Body.

But the great Reputation these famous and pleasant Chymical Drops have so universally gain'd among Persons of Eminence, for their suddenly and infallibly curing the Scurvy and all Scorbatic Humours, and other Chronick Diseases, in such an easy and agreeable Manner, have occasioned many to imitate them, and under the same, and others under other Names: Be careful therefore not to be deceiv'd; but be sure to have the Right, which by the Author's special Appointment, are to be had only at the Gentlewoman's, at the Two Blue Posts, in Haydon-Yard, in the Minories, at 3 s. 6 d. a Bottle, with Directions.
